

Facing and planning for the future - New Models of School Leadership

The National College has produced fabulous overview notes and great links to essential documents that will help you on a quest to drive your schools' strategic plan forwards.

Please click link:

<http://www.nationalcollege.org.uk/index/leadershiplibrary/leadingschools/modelsandpartnerships/what-are-new-models-of-leadership.htm>

All we would add to this is that please be cognisant of the long-term implications of any steps that may take. A number of the SGA board are professionally trained facilitators and we will, subject to availability, help you with your deliberations.

Probably the biggest opportunity for schools in any form of collaboration is the opportunity to employ a shared business manager. This web-link provides much needed information to enable you to become fully briefed on the opportunity.

Please click link:

<http://www.nationalcollege.org.uk/index/leadershiplibrary/leadingschools/managing-schools/role-of-the-school-business-manager.htm>

Should you have any personal experiences where you can share any key learning points from setting up any form of collaboration then please contact us at communications@staffsga.org.uk